A screenshot of a web browser showing a Discord invitation page. The browser's address bar displays "discord.com". The page header includes the Discord logo and the text "DISCORD". The main content area features a green Discord logo, the text "bot202 invited you to join", and the server name "KYC Virtual Thursdays". Below the server name, it shows "2 Online" and "2 Members". There is a text input field labeled "USERNAME" with the placeholder text "What should everyone call you?". A blue "Continue" button is positioned below the input field. At the bottom, there is a link "Already have an account?" and a small disclaimer: "By registering, you agree to Discord's Terms of Service and Privacy Policy."

Once on this page, give a nickname. This could be your name, or just a random name.

Once here, enter a birthday. This can be fake, as the only reason you need to provide it is to verify you are over 13. Once complete enter your email and a password for future login.

Once you have created an account, Discord will attempt to teach you how to use the platform. Tap on the exclamation points and the orange circles to complete the tutorial.

After the tutorial, you should get this page. Tap on the blue smiley face towards the top left corner.

Tap on the thumbs up button to unlock the full server.

To initiate a voice/video call, tap on “voice and video calling”. This is where computer and mobile versions of Discord differ.

For mobile:

Click the camera button in the call control screen. This will initiate the video call.

For computers:

Click on “voice and video calling”.

Click on the gray “voice and video calling” link. This brings you into the video call, with zoom-like controls.
